This forum will focus on the opportunities that have been adopted by land managers in pastoral and plant production systems across the NT to increase the resilience either through soil health, plant or animal support, water efficiencies and technology use. Presented by experienced pastoralists, farmers and those that work alongside them, this forum will identify tools and opportunities across the industry that can be adopted in your business that can deliver efficiencies and provide some resilience against a variable climate. Grazing practices, composting, carbon, water efficiency, climate tools and understanding, and using technology on property, there will be something for everyone. There is also opportunities for networking and knowledge sharing during the catered morning tea and lunch.

You are welcome to take notes, photos and are encouraged to share your experience.
