AI can do a lot – but how can it actually help you?

Discover practical ways AI can support Caring for Country programs – from saving time on reporting and planning to turning observations, ideas and stories into resources.

In this hands-on workshop, explore a range of AI tools, including the potential applications of image recognition software, video and graphic design assistants for creating promotional and social-media content, and voice-to-text and AI writing tools such as ChatGPT and Gemini for capturing ideas, taking notes, drafting reports and preparing funding applications.

We will also unpack the risks and limitations of AI – including accuracy, bias, cultural considerations and data privacy – and learn how to use these tools critically, safely and responsibly.

Come ready to experiment, ask questions and discover where AI could make a real difference in your work.
